Tues	To write the opening of your fable	Watch Mrs Sutcliff and Mr Button's daily video.  Input: What should the opening of your fable include? Look at your plan and think about how you will introduce your fable.                      It is important to focus on clearly writing the fable's opening, taking your time with descriptions. This could be completed within four lines, but we would like you to add detail. For example, where is the story set? What do the characters look like? Remember to look back at the story and see how you can add adjectives.  In a forest, lived a small cat and frog. How could you improve this opening?  One morning, a black and white fluffy cat walked through a dark, dense forest. What do you notice about this example?                      When writing your opening today, you need to:                     <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Meet character 'hero' and 'villain'</li> <li>- Describe the characters</li> <li>- Describe the setting (where they live)</li> </ul>                     You will need to add adverbs, prepositions, speech and exciting adjectives.  Task: Write the opening of your fable.

Weds	To write the problem of your fable	Watch Mrs Sutcliff and Mr Button's daily video  Input: Read your opening from yesterday. Where did you end your opening? Make sure to continue writing from that point today with a new paragraph.                      Look at your plan and explain to someone at home what will happen in the problem. Make sure to add enough detail to keep the reader interested!                      When writing your problem, you will need:                     <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- To know what characters take part in the problem</li> <li>- One character to do something wrong</li> <li>- One of the characters to stay kind and persevere</li> </ul>                     You will need to add adverbs, prepositions, speech and exciting adjectives.  Task: write the problem of your fable.
