The seafronts most striking feature is the recently completed i360. The i360s viewing tower extends 162 metres into the air! Although there used to be three piers, Brighton Palace Pier is the only one in operation, and has been for 120 years. Next to it, the old West Pier still stands, although most of the piers structure burnt down in 2003. It is still a popular landmark and remains Brightons most photographed building. Away from seafront, the Royal Pavilions Indian style architecture is famous around the world. This former residence of King George IV is popular with both visitors and residents.
