

History

Outcomes

The children will have a strong understanding of the Tudor kings and queens, their influence on Britain at the time and their legacy. During the topic the children will study the decisions and changes made by the Tudor monarchs relating to religion, healthcare, social hierarchies and punishment.

Children create a historical journal as a Tudor character which explores each monarch and the influential decisions they made during their reign and their effect on Britain. They will include various forms of writing including diaries, letters, information leaflets and instructions.

They will visit a Tudor palace, where they will participate in workshops related to the reign of King Henry VIII.

At the end of the topic, they will take part in a Tudor day in which they will participate in a range of Tudor activities.
